THE HOUSE WASTES FOUR HOURS IN AN ATTEMPT TO GET A QUORUM.

Senator Palmer Pleased at the Action of the Illinois Convention-Commissioner Rossevelt Promises to Make it Warm for Postmaster-General Wanamaker,

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Theold story of Gov ernment injustice to the Indians was discussed all day in the Senate by Mr. Jones of Arkansas, in connection with the suspended appropria tion of nearly three millions of dollars for an area of land, variously estimated at from five to seven million acres, taken from the Choctaw and Chickasaw Nations. Mr. Jones contend-ed that great injustice had been done by the President in holding back the appropriation and the contrary view was taken by Messra. Allison and Platt. Mr. Teller of Colorado and Mr. Perkins of Kansas criticised the action of the President in setting aside an appropriation passed by Congress and approved by him-Mr. Jones's resolution, which declared that there was not sufficient ground for with holding the appropriation, was still unacted on when the Senate adjourned.

The House wasted four hours in an attempt to proceed with the Diplomatic and Consular bill. The reductions made by the committee in the salary of several important missions, notably that of the Envoy to Venezuela, were notably that of the Envoy to Venezuela, were not acceptable to the Republicans nor to many Democrats, and the House found itself without a voting quorum, although three calls of the committee disclosed a quarum present each time. After repeated votes by tellers with no quorum voting, a call of the House was ordered, and the deputy serge ants-at-arms, empowered to compel the afte adance of absent members, went to extreme means to earn their fees. Few of the members not on the floor were found in the committee rooms and other places about the Capitol, building, and as it was known that many members were at the Benning race track, two miles from the Capitol, live carriages, under the guidance of deputies, wore secured and driven to the track in the hope of making a big haul. After two hours wasted in an attempt to secure a quorum, the House adjourned until to-morrow.

The United States (Consul lat Havana reports the receipts at that port of American flour for the first three months of 1832 to be 101,080 hags, as against 0,751 bags for the same period last year. The receipts of Spanish flour for the first quarter of 1832 were 4,500 bags, and for the same period last year 85,374 bags. Similar importations are reported from other Cuban ports. The new tariff on flour under the reciprocity treaty went into effect in Cuba on Jan. I last.

The Census Office to-day issued a bulletin on the water transportation in the United States during the census year, 1890. This is the first census that has undertaken to gather, compile, and furnish full statistics concerning all classes of transportation by water. The transportation heet numbered 25,540 steamers, sailing vessels, and unrigged craft, whose gross tonnage was 7,653,076 toas, the estimated commercial value being $215,069,260. Other figures show that during the preceding year the freight movement by the whole operating American fleet amounted to 172,110,423 tons of all commodities. Exclusive of pleasure craft on the Atlantic coast and Guif of Mexico, 104,439 persons were employed as complementary crows, the amount paid out in salaries being $38,867,305.

In the Senate to-day Mr. Turple presented memorial of the Indianapolis Typothete in which attention is called to the evident injuswhich attention is called to the evident injustice practised by the United States Government in furnishing printed envelopes at the cost price of the envelopes only, with no charge for the printing or for delivery. It is estimated the number of envelopes furnished in this way exceeds 300,000,000. The Typothetas bases its objections on the ground that the Government has no right to set up opposition to private enterprise, or to invade its field, and that such action is a clear deprivation to the printers of the country of not less than $250,000, with no benefit to the Government.

Senator Turple to-day introduced a bill to exempt soldiers and sallors of the late war in the classified civil service of the United States from compulsory examination for promotion. Senator Turple says the bill was introduced to prevent the working of injustice to those who went into the army and navy, and thus prevented the completion of their education.

This hill authorizes and directs the Secretary of War to appoint a Board of three officers of the Corps of Engineers of the United States army, whose duty it shall be to select and survey and report the most feasible location, and estimate the expense of construction of a ship canal to connect the waters of Lake Erie from a point at or near Erie with the Ohio River at a point at or near Pittsburgh.

To all inquiries to-day Senator Palmer expressed himself as highly gratified over the resolutions of the Illinois Democratic Convention yesterday and perfectly satisfied. If the Convention deemed Cleveland's nomination desirable, he said, he should certainly support him with earnestness and sincerity. If the Convention determined to look to the West for a candidate, he was in a position to receive hearty support from his State. Friends of Senator Palmer make no concealment of their belief that the Convention will not nominate Cleveland, and that their choice will stand a most excellent chance for heading the ticket. They say that Cleveland cannot be nominated without such a fight that party harmony and success would be seriously imperilled.

Senator Gorman smiled one of his own peeuliar smiles to-day when he read the state-ment a column long in a Philadelphia Repubment a column long in a Philadelphia Republican paper to the effect that he and Senator Hill had parted company, the latter having discovered that the Maryland Senator's professed friendship for the past few months was simply for the purpose of enabling him to ferret out the New York Senator's political secrois for his own personal and political benefit. After characterizing the story as absurd, Senator Gorman repeated the statement which thehe made to This Sux correspondent early in winter, that he had never conversed with Senator Hill on the subject of the Presidential nomination. That statement was absolutely correct then, Senator Gorman says, and it is absolutely correct now. He and Senator Hill are good friends, and there has never been any understanding between them as to the Presidential nomination.

Theodore Roosevelt promises that when he takes the witness stand in the House investigating committee he will give Postmaster-General Wanamaker as lively a showing up as he ever gave Editor Frank Hatton of the Washington Fost during their quarrel of a year or two ago. Mr. Wanamaker made a very sorry exhibition of himself as a civil service reformer when he testified a few days ago, and practically stated that he thought Commissioner Roosevelt did not tell the truth in reporting that the officials of the Baltimore Post Office had violated the law by interfering in polities. Mr. Roosevelt's report said they were guilty, and the report which Mr. Wanamaker's Post Office inspectors made said they were innocent, so houest John pigeonholed both reports, and it is about this official action that Mr. Roosevelt will have something to say when he goes upon the stand before the committee. gating committee he will give Postmaster-

"Acts and Galaton" at the Music Mail. The production, in a lyrico-dramatic form, of Hall last evening, was a commendable tribute to the memory of the great composer, whose "Messiah" was first performed 150 years ago, and an experiment that could not but command attention and arouse interest. For lovers of the curious, the disclosure of the work after the fashion of circa 1720 was edifying and entertaining; for the student and lover of Handel's music, the occasion took on a deeper significance; for two classes of auditors, therefore, the venture promised grateful results.

Nowadays, of course "Acis and Galatea" must be regarded chiefly as a curiosity. The profound religious feeling that informs Handel's oratories, the magnificent choral writing which they abound, make one fordel's oratorios, the magnificent choral writing in which they abound, make one forget the conventional moulds into which the musician's measures are cast: the pretty sentimentalism of his shepherds and shepherdesses, and the elaborate vocalization of his giant are, however, powerless to conceal the artificialness of a style, admirable in its fluency and elaborateness, but in this instance absolutely anti-natural. Both the student and the dilettante must, to enjoy the pastorale now to be beheld at the Music Hall, take a quite different standpoint from that they can usually occupy.

This being accomplished, abundant pleasure may be gathered from the performance of "Acis and Galatea." The story of the "Seranta" or "Schäferspiel" as it is called, is the familiar one of the love of the shepherd and shepherdess, and the cruel intervention of Polyphemus, who slays Acis, and supplies a gentle dyl with a tragic dénoument. The charm of the music to which Handel has set the poet's book lies in its graceful simplicity, in the sharp differentiation of his principal characters, and in the plasticity of melody and harmony in the composers practised hands. Judged from a realistic point of view the structure crumbles at once. Yet there are some numbers in "Acis and Galatea" to which one can always lend a delighted ear. Notable among these are the tenor air. "Love in her eyes sits playing." and the bass. "O ruddier than the cherry."

The "Serenta." for thus it is designated on the house bills, is placed upon the platform of the Music Hall against a neatly painted background, showing presumably a Sicilian landscape. Mme, de Vere-Sapio, Miss. I rene Pevny, and Messrs. Rieger and Fischer are appropriately attired, and so is a fairly numerous and well-drilled chorus of shepherds and shepherdesses. Mme, de Vere-Sapio was last night a charming Galatea, tender, poetic, and intoroughly adequate, as a songstress to her music. Mr. Rieger, as Acis, was at first a trife unsteady in respect to intonation, but grew more self-possessed as the

"Acis and Galatea" was preceded by Handel's Concerto Gresso in G minor, for stringed orchestra with two violins and 'cello obligato; in this Messra. Brodsky, Conus, and Hekking were the protagonists.

The Cambol of the Lambs.

A remarkable entertainment was given at the Broadway Theatre yesterday afternoon by members of the Lambs' Club, a rollicking organization of actors. They called it a gambol It was rather more amusing to them than to the audience, of course, yet the fun was so abundant on the stage that quite enough got across the footlights to give two dollars' worth to each visitor. These Lambs don't gambol in public for nothing. Their friskiness this time must have brought $2,000 into the club treasury. But fen times that sum would not treasury. But ten times that sum would not have hired for the purposes of such foolery the men who indulged in it as volunteers. Much hard work and cleverness had been expended on the affair, too, and few of the effects aimed at had been trusted to chance or spontaneity. Sydney Rosenfeld had written "The Actors' Fund Fair." in which four comedians appeared in characters which they had already made famous. Crane was Senator Rivers, Goodwin was Carraccuy Bones, Holland was Colonel Carier, and Harris was Chad. Actors who figured as themselves were Barrymore, Lackaye. Hilliard, Nilke, Ryley, Delmore, and Martinetti. Parts created by the author for the plece were taken by Conor, Oberle, and Hopper. The scheme was simply to make the participants gibe one another, and this was done with comical good humor. At the end all sang and marched to "Ta-ra-ra boomde-ray."

Another novelty was "Three Christmas

Admiral Walker, with his flagship, the Chicago, and the Atlanta left Montevideo to-day for the United States. The Bennington, Essex, and Yankton will remain in the South Atlantic station. Commander Bradford is the senior officer in charge.

The House Committee on Railways and Canals to-day ordered a favorable report on the bill introduced by Mr. Dalzell of Pennsylvania appropriating $40,000 for a survey of a route for a ship canal to connect the waman. Scott. McIntosh. Holland, and Hopper-was adequate and careful.

A dialogue by Charles L. Harris, as a vocalist at rehearsal, and Fritz Williams, as a leader of the orchestra, was very funny in both conceit and delivery. It involved a quarrel between the two artists, and their ludicrous difficulties with the Lyceum band, until the rolling in of a keg of beer harmonized everything.

Three addresses were made by dramatists. Bronson Howard argued that literary men hardly ever wrote good plays. Augustus Thomas and Sydney Rosenfeld spoke humorously. Beparate contributors of entertainment were Laura Schirmer Mapleson, Marion Manola Lole Fuller, Marie Tempest, and Marshall P. Wilder. A conclusion was reached in "Corner Lots," an already familiar travesty ensected by members of the Twelfth Night Club.

THE NEGRO JUBILEE.

Nights of the Novel Show.

Madison Square Garden's negro jubilee came o a close last night, and the attendance and interest were so encouraging that the manof it, shifting the scene to the Academy of Music. Mme. Jones, the "Black Patti;" Levy and his band, the large chorus, the quartet, the banjo players, the dancers, in fact, the show in its entirety, will be given in the big theatre to-morrow and Sunday evenings. The change will be of advantage to the singers, as well as the management, expediting matters greatly. The con tract originally called for the se of the Garden until the close of the week, but the lease den until the close of the week, but the lease was waived in order to permit the management of the Actors' Fair to prepare for next week's big show.

Mme. Jones has scored a genuine hit, and has been besieged by managers since the opening night. But the prize was secured by Mr. S. Goodfriend, one of Frohman's brightest aids, and he chuckled last night as he fondled a year's contract. He is confident he has secured a jewel. The enterprising Hammerstein was one of the folled managers.

It is not improbable that a week's jubilee will be given in the Garden in the fall. The entertrainment was bright, interesting, and clean, and attracted a high class of patronage. Mr. A. M. Palmer paid it the high compliment of declaring it the best-managed affair of its kind he had witnessed.

Luke Blackburn, an exceptionally handsome negro, won the elaborate gold medal, emblematic of the cake-walk championship. He was the winner at the rocent walk in the Garden, and simply overshadows all pretentious rivals. "Dandy Jack" Smith and Proctor, the former champions, are as awkward as Fatty Langtry in comparison. Blackburn's partner, Miss Martha James, is a fitting mate. She is a wonderfully pretty mulatio, with a shapely figure that must have been the envy of the belies in the boxes. Proctor was second, while third honors were carried off by Mr. William Lewis and lady from Baltimore. Lewis is a fancy cake walker, whose frills did not count in a competition in which grace was the winning quality.

Mrs. Tooker Suing for Divorce. Application was made yesterday by Lawyer

Humphreys to Judge Bartlett in the Supreme Court, Brooklyn, for leave to serve by publication the summons and complaint in the suit of Mabel S. Tooker against Arthur S. Tooker for absolute divorce.

The couple were married at Bridgewater in 1881. Mrs. Tooker was a daughter of the late Judge Southworth, and her brother is Assemblyman James Southworth. They came to blyman James Scuthworth. They came to Brooklyn soon after their marriage and for some time lived in a fine house at 336 Gates avenue. Mrs. Tooker alleges that her husband deserted her a few years ago and went to live with a woman known as Carrie Arnold in a house in West Twenty-seventh street in this city. Lawyer Humphreys said he had ascertained that Tooker was a notorious gambler and that the New York police, who were after him on account of an alleged $10,000 swinding transaction, suspected he had fied to Mexico or Cuba with Carrie Arnold.

Judge Bartiett granted the application.

OVERCOME BY STAGE FRIGHT.

Plantet Fletochman Hurrico Home, Leaving SAN FRANCISCO, April 28.—Samuel G. Fleischman, a young San Francisco pianist, who has ust returned from eight years in Europe, was billed to give a piano recital last night in Metropolitan Hall, but he had an attack o stage fright and fled to his home. A large sudience waited till 9 o'clock, when the manager announced that an accident had befallen the performer and he could not appear. old mother was sitting near the front of the house, and fainted when she heard the announcement.

The family and friends returned to Fleischman's residence, and it was 11 o'clock hefore any one thought of searching the premises for the missing man. He was found in the cellar lying on the floor in a dazed state, with a flute in his hand. When resustiated he declared that he felt dizzy as he was about to enter the hall, and knew nothing more. He evidently walked home, went to an old trunk, got out a flute which was his favorite instrument when a boy, and attempted to play it. The doctor said it was an attack of vertigo induced by excitement. Fleischman has not recovered today, and is confined to the house.

A singular feature of the affair is that he has given many performances in Berlin. He has composed a symphony and a quartet for strings, both highly braised by critics. He has also written a symphonic poem based on Schiller's "Hero and Leander," which was produced in New York with success. Those who know him say he suffers from stage fright precisely as Fechter did when playing a new part for the first time.

Mrs. King's Reception for the Colonial Dames Mrs. Archibald Gracie King gave a reception yesterday afternoon at her home, "Highwood Bluff," at Weehawken, for the Colonial Dames, of which organization Mrs. King is President. The reception was in a measure intended to commemorate the 103d anniversary of the inauguration of George Washington. Mrs. King was assisted in receiving the guests by her daughters, Mrs. Jonn King Van Rensseiner, Mrs. Frederick Bronson, and Mrs. James Gore King. Mr. Bronson took over a party on his drag, and Mrs. Van Rensselaer chaperoned a large party of friends, including Mr. and Mrs. Britton Phillips and Mr. and Mrs. Lennig of Philadelphia; Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Schmidt, Mrs. John Lyon Gardiner, Miss Gardiner, Mr. Ramuel Cox, Mr. John A. Van Rensselaer, Mr. F. Harold Van Rensselaer, Miss Caylus, Mrs. George Ward, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wren Ward, Miss Ward, Mr. Y. Morris Howard, Mrs. Lewis Washington, and Mr. William H. Washington.

A feature of the reception was an interesting paper read by Miss Jean T. Boudinot, the owner of the Washington camp equipage. Several interesting letters were also read. The guests included members of the Sons of the Revolution, the Huguenots, and the Cincinnati. daughters, Mrs. John King Van Rensselner, Mrs.

Save Her Father Had to Sleep in the Barn Surrogate Stephen D. Stephens of Richmons county, sitting in the Edgewater Village Hall vesterday, held the first hearing in the contest over the will of Harrison Journeay of Tottenville. The amount involved is about $15,000
The will is contested by the widow and Susar B. Sprague, one of Journeay's daughters. For the last year of his life Mr. Journeay and his wife did not live together. He was 82 years wife did not live together. He was 82 years old and blind, and was taken care of by his daughter, Mrs. Mary L. Englebreth of Tottenville, to whom he left his property. The contestants allege undue influence.

The only witness examined yesterday was Mrs. Englebreth. She said her father had come to live with her because her mother often made him sleep in the barn, and otherwise ill treated him. She also said hor father had at one time given her a stocking full of money. She did not know how much the stocking contained and she had taken money from it whenever she needed it.

Borrowed Charley.

Mrs. Annie White left her flat at 336 West Forty-eighth street for an hour or two yester day morning, and when she returned at 1 o'clock her four-year-old boy Charley had disappeared. He was a bright little urchin who message was brought to her flat in the after noon, which said: "Your little cowboy is all right." The note, which was in pencil, was not signed, and Mrs. White was very much worried. not signed, and Mrs. White was very much worried.

She inquired along the street, and found that Charley had been seen on Eighth avenue with Louis Mutray, a cabman, who frequently visited Mrs. White's flat to see two cabmen who boarded with her. Mrs. White reported the case to Police Captain Dewey at the West Forty-seventh street station, and a general alarm was sent out from Police Headquarters to arrest Mutray. Mutray brought the child back to the house at 5 o'clock and sent him upstairs. Charley said he had a good time trotting around the city. Mutray was arrested, but will doubtless be discharged.

Neither Was the Missing Mrs. Peckinpang A relative of Dr. G. R. Peckinpaugh went to Matawan, N. J., yesterday morning to see if the strange woman reported from that town was the Doctor's missing wife. The woman proved to be a Swedish servant who had come in Matawan before Mrs. Peckinpaugh's disap-pearance, and who was evidently insane. This in Matawan before Mrs. Peckinpaugh's disappearance, and who was evidently insane. This woman disappeared yesterday, and search parties, organized in the hope of winning the $1,000 reward offered by Dr. Peckinpaugh, looked for her throughout the neighboring country, but without success.

Hope was started anew by Lawrence Feuerbach, a saloon keeper of 229 West Twelfth street, who called on the Doctor about noon and said a strange woman had been seen in the Ninth ward on Monday night who answered closely to the description of Mrs. Peckinpaugh. This woman, it was found, was unlike the Doctor's wife in important respects.

Trade Union of Reporters.

A meeting of newspaper reporters was held in the Astor House yesterday for the purpose of forming an organization to be attached to the International Typographical Union. Ex President Charles J. The organization is to be of the protective and benevolent class.

The Chinese Sabbath School Association The first anniversary of the Chinese Sabbath School Association was celebrated at the Cen-tral Methodist Episcopal Church in Seventh avenue last evening. There are thirty-eight avenue last evening. There are thirty-eight of these schools in the association, twelve of them being in New York, and eleven in Brooklyn. There are more than 1,200 Chinese in these schools and according to the report of Miss Clark, the Secretary of the association, there are 700 teachers.

Addresses were made by Dr. R. S. McArthur, the Roy. Dr. S. H. Virgin, and Dr. S. L. Baldwin.

Planist Friedhelm Discharged.

Arthur Friedheim, the planist who was arrested on the night of April 20, after the death of August Bartenhauser, doorkeeper in Amberg's Theatre, which followed a scuffle be-tween the two men, was discharged from cus-tody at the Yorkville Police Court yesterday after the report of the inquest held by Coroner Schultze and a jury, which exonerated Fried-helm, had been read to the Justics. Mrs. Ma-tilda Bartenhauser, a sister-in-law of the dead man, said her brother-in-law did not have heart disease, as the Coroner had decided. She made no formal objection.

A Nine-year-old Attempts Sulcide.

Anderson, Ind., April 28.-Jessie Hoover, the nine-year-old stepdaughter of William Stafford, created a sensation to-day by jump-ing into White River. She sank three times. and was finally rescued by her father. Hard work by physicians restored her. She wanted to kill herself because her mother would not let her play on the railroad. This is the third time the child has attempted to drown herself. A few weeks ago she got angry at her brother, and held her lead under water in a pond until life was almost gone. BROOKLYN ELEVATED LITIGATION.

Serrett and Uhiman Seeking the Removal of Inspectors Hall and Martin. On the application of Anthony Barrett and Court has issued an order directing Charles J. Hall and Frederick Martin to show cause today why they should not be removed as In-spectors of Election of the Brooklyn Elevated Railroad Company.

This is another move in the fight between This is another move in the fight between the warring factions in the company for control. Mr. Hall has recently been defeated in his efforts to prevent Mr. Barrett from voting on 23,790 shares of stock, which, it was alleged, he held as Trustee for Brocklyn politicians and Aldermen who had received it for favors granted to the company. When the fight was started a few months ago; the Barrett-Uhlman combination obtained an injunction preventing Mr. Hall and Mr. Martin from acting as inspectors, and if they succeed in this last motion Mr. Hall and Mr. Martin will be removed altogether.

Barrett and Uhlman allege that Hall and Martin are members of "a conspiracy" against some of the stockholders and are incapable of acting inpartially as inspectors.

The adjourned annual meeting of the company is to be held to-morrow.
